About the Conference

The International Conference on "Traversing the Borders and Boundaries: A Consortium of Language and Literature" seeks to examine the dynamic intersections of language, literature, culture, technology, and society in an increasingly interconnected world.

The conference aims at bringing together academicians, researchers, scholars, educators, and practitioners to explore how linguistic and literary studies transcend conventional boundaries— disciplinary, cultural, ideological, and digital. By encouraging interdisciplinary dialogue and global perspectives, the conference provides a platform for innovative research, collaborative learning, and critical reflection on emerging trends in humanities scholarship.
